L. W. Meachum, who on occasion sits in for Paul Buchanan on the "Pull Up a Chair" column of the Batesville Guard, tells this one in the Guard of Jan. 16:

This week I have been off the place. Went to Mountain Home to a board meeting of the Fox Trotting Horse Breeders Association of Arkansas. We registered over 600 horses last year.

I heard a number of good jokes. For instance, the one about the chairman of the Baptist convention who was limiting speakers to 30 minutes. One brother didn't get wound up until his time was up.

Finally, after he had been "walking about Zion" for 45 minutes, the chairman stepped to the pulpit and rapped his gavel to inform the speaker that he had gone over time. Instead of hitting the pulpit he popped a brother on the head who was sitting near by.

The innocent "bystander", instead of falling to the floor, shook his head and said, "hit me again, I can still hear him."

Frank King says the story about my boxer dog stealing a chocolate cake off the kitchen table reminds him of another four-legged thief that used to be in the King household—but who had his come-uppance.

His wife, Dora, is famous for her home-made rolls. The Kings' pet boxer had gotten away with a couple of rolls, and crime that goes undetected makes the criminal bold and incautious.

This dog collected his just desserts when, scanning the kitchen table, he discovered a fresh batch of unbaked rolls, slurped the pan and swallowed the collection of raw dough.

Thataway he cured himself of table-snatching.

Reminds me of a middle-aged Hope man's recollections as a 'teen-ager. Some of the boys around Hope used to get up early and follow the milkman and his deliveries. As soon as he set the bottles on a doorstep and vanished around the corner our 'teen-agers came out of ambush and drank up the milk.

But one irascible householder got up earlier than the boys did, observed the setup one morning—and the next day spiked the milk with croton oil.

And that, observed my middle-aged rueful friend, was that...

Czechs Have Another Crisis With Suicides

PRAGUE (AP) — A second attempt at suicide by fire presented Czechoslovakia's Communist leaders today with their gravest crisis since the Soviet invasion five months ago.

An attempt at self-immolation also occurred Monday in Budapest, the Hungarian capital, but the government there indicated it was not politically motivated. Radio Budapest said the 17-year-old youth, Sandor Bauer, had tried to commit suicide two years ago. A government communiqué said he was in grave condition today.

Approval of Hickel Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel's controversial statements on conservation apparently have resulted in his being the only one of President Nixon's cabinet appointments not to receive the unanimous approval of the Senate.

In announcing his opposition to Hickel's appointment, Democratic Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota said:

"I am voting against the confirmation of Gov. Hickel as secretary of the interior primarily because I believe he is not qualified by understanding, experience and outlook to become the nation's chief conservationist."

The other 11 cabinet appointments were confirmed without opposition Monday, a few hours after the Senate Interior Committee voted 14 to 3 to approve the man Nixon wants as secretary of the interior.

Inadequate Equipment, Says Skipper

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The skipper of the USS Pueblo says the Navy didn't provide retaliatory help or adequate guns, communications or explosives to destroy secret equipment when North Koreans captured his intelligence ship.

Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher testified Monday at the opening of a court of inquiry into the loss of the ship last Jan. 23, the death of one crewman and imprisonment of the 82 others for 11 months.

Bucher, apparently still tense from his prison experience, was expected to testify for two or three days. The court of five admirals could recommend anything from medals to court-martial.

But Navy lawyers told Bucher that so far he was not suspected of violating any military laws.

The Navy said Bucher will be followed on the stand by his superior, Rear Adm. Frank L. Johnson, former commander of naval forces at Japan, and Cmdr. Charles R. Clark, skipper of a sister intelligence ship.

When he sailed the Pueblo on its mission to scout North Korean radar and North Korean and Soviet ships in the Sea of Japan, Bucher testified, he wanted twin 20 or 40 millimeter guns.

But instead, Bucher said, he got two .50-caliber machine guns, 3,000 to 5,000 rounds of ammunition, a spare barrel and a mount for a third .50-caliber machine-gun he never received. The weapons were much smaller and lighter than those he said he had requested.

They were installed in Japan, Bucher said, a few weeks before the Pueblo was to begin her intelligence mission off North Korea.

Bucher said he was under orders from Adm. Johnson to "employ (the guns) as a last resort only in cases where threat to survival is obvious... and not to practice the use of those guns or uncover them in the presence of foreign ships."

Bucher said this was to keep the intelligence ship from appearing aggressive.

He said the guns were "temperamental, difficult to keep adjusted and hard to prepare for firing."

Senate to Give Nixon Time on Peace But None on Home Issues

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are promising President Nixon time and elbow room in the search for peace in Vietnam, but they indicate any honeymoon on domestic issues may be short.

Democrats and Republicans enthusiastically approved Nixon's selection of the search for peace as the principal theme of his Monday inaugural address.

J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was favorably impressed by Nixon's assertion that "after a period of confrontation, we are entering a period of negotiation."

"It was a very superior speech," the Arkansas Democrat said. "I particularly liked his emphasis on his determination to pursue a policy of peace. Congress is certainly going to give him a reasonable time to pursue that objective."

However, Washington Democratic Sen. Henry Jackson said, "I think there will be a very limited honeymoon on some domestic issues which change from day to day. But there is general agreement that he needs time and latitude to deal with the biggest problem of all—peace."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the 1968 Democratic vice presidential nominee, said Nixon "pressed all of the right buttons, struck all of the right themes and I thought he did it well."

But "I think Democrats will await the specifics before taking positions on domestic issues,"

Mrs. King Goes to New Delhi

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. flew to New Delhi Wednesday after an audience with Pope Paul VI.

"The Holy Father has been very kind to me and to the work of my late husband," said Mrs. King at a press conference prior to her flight. "I have pledged myself to continue my husband's work. I am pleased that Pope Paul has such strong commitments in the same areas."

She will receive an award in New Delhi in honor of her husband.

Mixed Drinks Measure Introduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Three Pulaski County representatives introduced the administration's mixed drink bill Monday.

Reps. Herbert Rule III, Allan Dishongh and David Kane sponsored the measure, HB113. Rep. James Dawson of Conway objected to the routine second reading of it, thereby slowing processing of the bill by one day.

Rule said 51 favorable votes would pass it. He said he had not determined how much support it had.

The bill would provide local option elections in wet counties on whether to allow the sale of mixed drinks in private clubs, hotels and restaurants. It also would authorize law enforcement authorities to enter private clubs without a search warrant and also provide for the examination of a private club's books and records for tax purposes.

Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs introduced a bill (HB99) to repeal the state's fair trade liquor law and set a tax of $5 on each gallon of liquor sold or offered for sale.

Rep. Eugene Still of Blytheville introduced a bill that would regulate the sale, possession and use of firearms and dangerous weapons, except rifles and shotguns.

He said the bill would provide for a five-day waiting period between the time a person files an application to purchase a pistol and the time the pistol is delivered.

Inaugural Pageantry Behind, Nixon Turns to Problems of Day

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Richard Milhous Nixon, the pomp and pageantry of his inauguration day behind him, turned today to the somber tasks of guiding the nation through turmoil at home and war abroad.

The politician whose career once teetered on oblivion began his term as 37th President Monday with a pledge "to consecrate my office, my energies, and all of the wisdom I can summon, to the cause of peace among nations."

Even before he plunged into the merry whirl of Monday night's inaugural balls—where Republicans celebrated their return to power after an eight-year gap—the new President had arranged for a meeting of the National Security Council today.

Nixon also planned to meet with Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and aides said he would confer soon with his Cabinet and Urban Affairs Council.

In the heady atmosphere of Inauguration Day, the former transfer of presidential power from Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson to Republican Nixon was carried out in peace and harmony.

The day was marred, however, by brief and scattered but sometimes bloody confrontations between police and a small band of antiwar protesters who tried but failed to seriously disrupt the inauguration events.

It was at 12:16 p.m. Monday that the 56-year-old son of a California grocer stood in the shadow of the towering Capitol dome and, with his right hand upraised and his left hand on two family Bibles held by his wife Pat, repeated in a firm and forceful voice the 35-word oath administered by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Spiro T. Agnew, former Maryland governor and son of a Greek immigrant, had been sworn in moments earlier as vice president.

Looking on were President Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic vice president whom Nixon narrowly defeated in November's general election.

Then, after cannons roared out a 21-gun salute and the Marine Band played "Hail to the Jewish, Irish Power Answer to Negroes

By DAN CUFF
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jewish Power! Irish Power! Italian Power! That's what a rabbi calls for in a tongue-in-cheek letter to the president of Adelphi University, where black students have been seeking more power.

Dr. Karl Applbaum, rabbi at a Jewish center in Brooklyn, foresees classes in Irish jigs, lunch hours with serenades in Yiddish and special days of honor of such Italian heroes as Garibaldi.

"I really felt I wanted to speak out on this subject," Rabbi Applbaum said Monday. In the letter he asked for:

Textbooks that read from right to left and kosher cafeterias; observance of Murphy Day, O'Brien Day and several other holidays for the Irish; Italian dancing classes and Italian music.

Rabbi Applbaum, 59, president of the Long Island chapter of the Association of the United States Army, said his letter to Dr. Robert Olmsted of the Long Island university was sent to demonstrate the deterioration of American universities.

Twigg Fashions Are All Wet

LONDON (AP) — Twigg's latest fashions are all wet—or at least they seem to be.

The thin British model unveiled some new clothes at the Ritz Hotel Monday and featured among the collection were tights that look wet.

The "wet look" tights are really a two-in-one garment with elastic panty-girdle top.

Chief," Nixon delivered his 17-minute inaugural address in solemn and restrained tones.

With satellite television beaming his words to countless millions around the world, President Nixon said that "For the first time, because the people of the world want peace and the leaders of the world are afraid of war, the times are on the side of peace."

"The greatest honor history can bestow is the title of peacemaker," he said without specifically mentioning the Vietnam war he inherited. "This honor now beckons America—the chance to help lead the world at last out of the valley of turmoil, and onto that high ground of peace that man has dreamed of since the dawn of civilization."

"Let us take as our goal; where peace is unknown, make it welcome; where peace is fragile, make it strong; where peace is temporary, make it permanent."

An era of negotiation is dawning, Nixon said. "But," he added, "to all those who would be tempted by weakness, let us leave no doubt that we will be as strong as we need to be for as long as we need to be."

The President promised to press urgently forward at home for full employment, better housing, excellence in education, rebuilding of cities and improving rural areas. But, he cautioned, "we are reaching the limits of what government alone can do."

"What has to be done, has to be done by government and people together or it will not be done at all," Nixon said.

He called for unity, saying "No man can be fully free while his neighbor is not. To go forward at all is to go forward together. This means black and white together, as one nation, not two."

Speaking in low tones himself, the President said one simple way to help restore national harmony would be "to lower our voices."

"We cannot learn from one another until we stop shouting at one another—until we speak quietly enough so that our words can be heard as well as our voices," he said. And he promised, "for our part, government will listen..."

A few hours later, Nixon caught a glimpse of the "raucous discord" he mentioned in As the President rode in a bullet-proof black limousine from the Capitol to the White House, a band of antiwar demonstrators hurled rocks and other debris from the sidewalk.

None of the debris struck the presidential car, and Nixon pointedly ignored the protesters by turning to wave at the crowds on the other side of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Just prior to this incident, and several times later, the demonstrators tangled with some of the nearly 5,000 policemen and National Guardsmen—enforced by paratroopers—from Ft. Bragg, N.C.—who lined the city's streets.

Never did the shouting demonstrators—one estimate placed their numbers at 1,000 in the crowd of perhaps 250,000—come within a block of the bullet-resistant glass booth from which

Senator Plans to Cool It

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John O. Pastore D-R.I., says he is going to cool it in the shouting department on the indirect advice of President Nixon.

Pastore, a small man with a big voice, was asked to raise his voice Wednesday while speaking in the Senate.

"I can raise it," Pastore responded. "But we heard a speech today in which we were told to keep it cool, to keep it in a whisper so that you can hear the words and not the noise."

Nixon said in his inaugural address: "We cannot learn from one another until we stop shouting at one another—until we speak quietly enough so that our words can be heard as well as our voices."

6 Killed in Heavy Raids by Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers attacked U.S. land, river and air forces with rockets, mortars and grenades Monday and today, coinciding with the inauguration of President Nixon.

At least six American servicemen were killed and 35 Americans were wounded, including a civilian.

A high-ranking South Vietnamese police official said captured Communist orders directed a new wave of terrorism at U.S. troops in an attempt to increase antiwar sentiment among the American public.

Several other attacks apparently were thwarted by American forces who uncovered two enemy munitions caches and broke up a convoy of enemy sampans moving troops south of Saigon.

In the past 24 hours, military spokesmen said, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops attacked U.S. Navy patrol boats and landing craft and cargo ships, American officers' quarters, a U.S. military advisers compound, a small observation plane flying over the demilitarized zone and U.S. troops based within 11 miles of Saigon.

Inside Saigon, terrorists threw hand grenades at two U.S. billets a mile apart and wounded eight Americans. The terrorists escaped. Increased numbers of uniformed and plainclothes South Vietnamese police were roaming the capital because of the directives calling for a new wave of terrorism against Americans.

Enemy rockets, mortars, machine guns, hand grenades and mines sank a 31-foot Navy patrol boat and badly damaged another, ripped through the stern of the 384-foot LST Tom Green County, slightly damaged the American cargo ship Muskum, tore a tire off a small

Miss Cole, whose placard at a Nixon campaign rally in Deshler caught the President's eye, rode on the theme float in the inaugural parade.

On the float she held a placard bearing the same message she gave Nixon in Deshler: "Bring Us Together."

Israel Patrols Kill Six Arabs on Frontiers

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli desert patrols killed six Arab saboteurs in two clashes in the Negev Desert near the Jordanian frontier Monday night, the Israeli army announced today.

An army spokesman said one patrol killed three members of a guerrilla squad near Elin Yahav, 37 miles south of the Dead Sea. Twenty minutes later a patrol intercepted another group of infiltrators in the same area, the spokesman continued, and three more Arabs were killed.

The spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties.

The Arabs, the spokesman said, were members of the Al Fatah commando organization, which had not been reported operating in the Negev area in some weeks.

An army spokesman also announced that an Arab woman was killed and nine others were wounded Monday when Israeli troops opened fire on them in the Gaza Strip town of Rafah.

A&P to Make Changes in Organization

NEW YORK — The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Inc.
today announced a major decentralization move effective when the nation's largest food retailer begins its new fiscal year, February 24.
Melvin W. Alldredge, chairman and chief executive officer, said "the new organization structure is designed to facilitate decision-making by local management and to provide more flexibility in operating store groups averaging more than $150 million a year in sales."
A&P is delegating operating authority for its 4723 stores to 33 autonomous Divisions in the United States. Canada will continue to operate as a subsidiary company, The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, Limited.
U.S. Divisions will be grouped into four regions—Eastern, Central, Southern, and Western.
"In today's fast-moving, keenly competitive business of food retailing," Mr. Alldredge said, "it is important that the men responsible for buying, distributing and selling, and the operations of our stores, be in position to move quickly in response to the needs of their local markets."
The 33 new U.S. Divisions each will be headed by a general manager, who also will be a regional vice-president.
Present division presidents, who also are corporate vice presidents, will continue as company officers at New York Headquarters and will have liaison responsibilities for regional areas. They will have offices in New York and also maintain offices in the respective regions.
Increased flexibility at the new divisional level is expected to expedite operating decisions and administrative procedures by establishing direct communication between Headquarters and the selling divisions, Mr. Alldredge said.
The decentralized structure is consistent with the faster-paced, more streamlined approach to the business reflected in policy, personnel and other changes that have occurred since last June

Reminded of Commitment
WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) —
Richard M. Nixon's boyhood friends of the Quaker faith want to remind him of his commitment to peace.
Silently, 35 persons carrying placards walked in rain Sunday from Whittier High School to Whittier College, five blocks away, where they held a two-hour vigil seeking world peace.
Nixon attended both schools.
"As a Quaker, you are aware that for 300 years the Religious Society of Friends has opposed war in any form," the group said in an open letter to Nixon.
Ann Rush, chairman of Quakers for Action, said later the demonstration was "a prayer and a hope for a real beginning of world peace during the term of a Quaker president."

INAUGURAL (from page one)
Nixon, his wife, their daughters Julie and Tricia and other friends and dignitaries watched the two-and-a-half hour inaugural parade.
As the parade unfolded, Johnson was flying through the cold winter skies to his Texas ranch, a 32-year career in public office
at an end.
When the Air Force jet—the same one that carried Johnson and the body of President John F. Kennedy back from Texas five years ago—landed at an airport near Austin, a band struck up the "Eyes of Texas" and a sign proclaiming "Welcome Back, President Johnson and Family" was hoisted in the crowd of 5,000.
"You don't know how good it feels to be back with you," the former president responded.
"You make us feel mighty happy."
The changeover from Democratic to a Republican administration as symbolized by President Nixon's inaugural address was greeted warmly by leaders of both political parties and government heads on both sides of the Iron Curtain.
The Kremlin sent a message urging cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States as the only way to insure peace in the world.
Even the North Vietnamese were restrained in a statement.
Democratic leaders in Congress hailed Nixon's emphasis on peace in the world, but there were indications the new President's honeymoon with the lawmakers might be short regarding domestic issues.
But following his solemn inauguration speech, Nixon Monday was able to forget briefly the cares of his new office and watch the colorful parade and spend the night celebrating the occasion by attending the six inaugural balls where bejeweled ladies and tuxedo-clad gentlemen danced until the early hours Tuesday.
The ball-goers were exuberant —Republicans were back in the White House for only the second time since 1933, Nixon was happy, too. He told the crowd at each stop:
"In the years ahead we will look back at this night. We will forget it was cold during the day and that it rained at night and will simply remember the warm glow of the evening."

Train Ride
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) —
A gray cat rode 440 miles from Chicago to Minneapolis on the Burlington's Zephyr clinging to a drawbar between two diesel engines, trainmen said.
The cat, covered with ice and snow, was discovered when the train pulled into Minneapolis at 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The train reached speeds up to 90 miles per hour on the six-hour run.
A call to Chicago revealed that the cat is a mascot at the train yards there and that Robert Mattingley, Chicago pit foreman, was looking for the animal.

Jury Being Picked for Shaw Trial

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Selection of the Clay Shaw trial jury starts today in a courtroom showdown on Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's claim that President John F. Kennedy was killed by a band of conspirators—not by a lone sniper.
Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. summoned 160 citizens for examination as prospective jurors with still others readily available.
Shaw, 55, a tall, chain-smoking, retired business executive is charged with conspiring to murder the president who was assassinated in Dallas November 22, 1963.
The Criminal district courtroom was under extraordinary guard. Deputies were under orders to search all spectators.
Opening of the trial was preceded by an unusual legal flip-flop by the prosecution.
Asst. Dist. Atty. James L. Ai-cock, named by Garrison to handle the case, asked Friday that the trial be delayed indefinitely. Then he withdrew the motion when it came before Judge Haggerty in a hearing Monday.
At the hearing, Alcock accused U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark of deliberately interfering by releasing a report on the Kennedy autopsy "on the eve of the picking of the jury for the Reaction to Inaugural Address

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon's presidential inaugural summons to peace drew warm praise from Capitol Hill to the Kremlin, but left some Americans-in-the-street baffled and at least one Negro leader downright disappointed.
"The speech reflected no sense of urgency and no sensitivity to the basic problems of hunger, poverty and race in this nation," said the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.
Almost unanimous praise flowed from both sides of the aisle in Congress although there were indications that in domestic affairs the new President's honeymoon with lawmakers may be short.
"I particularly liked the emphasis on his determination to pursue a policy of peace," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee was one of the loudest and most persistent critics of Johnson administration Vietnam policies.
Nixon "pressed all of the right buttons and he struck all of the right themes," said Sen. Edmund Muskie, the Maine Democrat and unsuccessful Democratic vice presidential candidate.
Muskie, however, sounded a note of caution on how Congress

Tuesday, January 21, 1969 will read to Nixon programs, saying "I think Democrats will await specifics before taking positions on domestic issues."
Republicans, as could be expected, were unanimous in their public praise of Nixon's speech.
House GOP leader Gerald Ford said the speech "struck just the right tone for this moment in history."
In a congratulatory message to Nixon, leaders of the Soviet Union said the two world powers must strive to improve relations.
"Through joint efforts with other states the Soviet Union and the United States must do all that is needed to solve ripe international problems," said Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The major television networks, by pool coverage, by individual enterprise and by meticulous planning, gave Americans everywhere a splendid front row seat for the inauguration of their 37th president.

They had cameras everywhere that cameras were permitted, and from the moment President-elect Nixon emerged from his hotel quarters Monday morning until he walked into the White House as President in the late afternoon, the television screens of the nation recorded his progress.

The major events—the administration of the oath of office, the inaugural speech and the long parade—were handled in smooth fashion. The extra special dimension of the day was provided by the closeups, and an occasional warm, human moment.

It was, of course, a great day for the incoming president and his family. But the omnipresence of the cameras made the role of the outgoing president difficult, even awkward.

Lyndon B. Johnson handled it well, but there were moments when every viewer must have identified with him and sympathized deeply. This viewer will remember particularly the moment when, seated in the limousine, he took a very long, thoughtful look at the White House for the last time as President.

Then came the moment when he and his smiling successor arrived for the inauguration ceremonies. Johnson and his vice president stood, almost like spectators, as reporters and broadcasters clustered around Nixon and Agnew. There was, too, the departure of the Johnson family for Texas. The ex-president, obviously moved, shook hands warmly with a crowd of well-wishers before boarding the presidential plane. The networks cut back and forth between the new President as he watched the parade and the farewell drama going on at Andrews Air Force base.

Of special interest to television viewers, too, were evidences of the tight security precautions surrounding the presidential party. Even before the network announcers described an antiwar demonstration on the motorcade route to the capitol ceremonies, we knew something was going on. The bodies of the Secret Service men around the limousine tensed and they moved in protectively around the car carrying the President and the President-elect. It was, somehow, reassuring.

The inaugural balls, covered late in the evening by CBS and NBC, were pretty much of a mess. There were so many people crowded so closely together that it was impossible even to see what many of the women were wearing. Mrs. Nixon looked very pretty but as far as her gown was concerned, all one could see were some white and some glitter. The President made a warm, funny little speech to the crowd.

It was a long day—for those who participated in the ceremonies. And the principals held up remarkably well. And it was a long day for those who watched. But the reward was drama, emotion and plenty of color. And around 60 million of us—that was the estimate of the number of people who saw all or part of the day's proceedings—had a better view of a particularly American celebration from their living rooms than those who stood on the lines of march or even sat in the stands.

We would be interested in a statistical count of how many East players actually passed today's hand in the continent-wide charity game. In theory there is no opening bid here but in practice we would open one club in view of the desire for a club lead if on defense, and the feeling of security engendered by possession of three quick tricks in case partner should get around to doubling some contract.

The club opening won't keep North and South out of the bidding and they will probably wind up at some number of no-trump. If West makes his correct opening lead of the deuce of clubs and East returns a low club after taking his king, South will wind up with eight tricks for plus 120 if he stopped below game and minus 100 if he reached it.

If East passes there is a very good chance that North and South will reach game. South has only 15 points but many players will open one no-trump anyway and North can surely gamble on game in view of his five-card diamond suit.

Most of these bidders will be rewarded. If West opens the jack of hearts East will be in with the ace. He may return the suit whereupon South will take 10 tricks. He may lead the king or ace of clubs and continue, whereupon clubs will lock and South make his game on the nose. Fast is most unlikely to lead a low club and beat the contract.

With the spade opening it is just as hard to find the right defense. South may rise with dummy's ace and lead a heart.

It would require almost clairvoyance for East to hop with the ace and lead a low club.

Agnew Much Like the Guy Next Door

By JACK KNEECE

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew, the nation's new vice president, is much like the guy next door—a man people might feel they have known all their lives.

He lost $5 dollars on the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl, shoots golf in the high 80s, likes to play "Ebb Tide" on the piano and sends out for his favorite food—pizza.

Like millions of other American men, his education was interrupted by World War II, and he married his Forest Park High School sweetheart—Judy Judefind.

Yet, Agnew—the friend from next door—stood in front of the White House Monday as the band from his old high school marched by to honor him as America's 39th vice president.

How did this 50-year-old son of a Greek immigrant rise to the nation's second highest elective office, a position held by such political illuminaries as John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon, all of whom were elevated to the presidency.

The will to succeed may have begun on the streets of Baltimore during the depression years when he helped his father sell vegetables from a cart, said aides.

He majored in chemistry at Johns Hopkins University before finally admitting that he could never make a good chemist. He switched to law school at night while working for an insurance company in the daytime.

After the World War II interruption Agnew returned to Baltimore to finish law school. He found it hard to set up a practice and became a personnel manager for a supermarket chain.

But Agnew took an active interest in civic affairs and in 1962 was elected Baltimore County executive.

But Democratic power in the state was too strong for anyone to seriously think Agnew, a Republican, might rise above local politics.

But in 1966, he saw a chance to fool the experts when a bitterly fought gubernatorial primary resulted in a divided Democratic state party. Agnew took the gamble, won the GOP nomination and easily captured the Maryland governorship.

Still, most political observers wrote him off as a political fluke who would be returned to obscurity after one term in the state house.

However, Agnew projected himself into the national GOP picture as the presidential election year came around. He was among the first to urge New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to run for the GOP presidential nomination.

But after the New Yorker moved uncertainly about his candidacy, Agnew switched his allegiance to Richard Nixon.

The switch paid off at the GOP National Convention last summer in Miami.

An aide described that moment this way:
The governor was watching television, awaiting Nixon's selection of a running mate.

He did not remotely consider himself a possibility for several reasons, including the last minute switch to Nixon and the fact that the name Spiro T. Agnew was "not exactly a household word," as he phrased it himself.

The telephone in Agnew's Miami suite rang and it was his old friend, Maryland Republican Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton.

"Ted, I hope you're sitting down," Morton said. He told Agnew of Nixon's selection. Not many who saw Agnew's flabber.

gasted reaction afterwards can doubt his surprise.
The man next door—a man most Americans can identify with—was suddenly on the threshold of the nation's second highest office.

Monday he stood in cold, damp weather as Senate GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen administered the oath of office in rolling base tones.

Nearby was the girl from Forest Park High School.

Hope Teams to Mineral Springs

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Shooting for their fifth straight victory, the Hope Lady Cats join the "B" Lizards in two games to night at Mineral Springs, with the first tipoff set for 6:30 p.m.

Now 8-7 for the season, the Ladies have come a long way from 2-6, and already have beaten Mineral Springs 42-35 on a cold shooting night two weeks ago. After two crushing wins over Emmet and DeQueen, the Lady Cats will use this evening's game as a prep for the Gurdon Invitational Tourney starting tomorrow.

That first-round opponent at Gurdon is Delight, whose girls sport wins over teams as noted as Nashville. Recently, however, Nashville in a turnabout overran Delight 56-33, providing sort of a comparison after the game tomorrow night, which starts at 7:40 p.m.

Mineral Springs Hornets will be seeking revenge for an earlier 55-50 loss to the Hope "B" squad, and Coach Terry Robinson's forces gained confidence by placing runnerup in the Saratoga Tournament just completed.

In several devastating blows, the Western Division powers of 4-AA established unopposed leadership over the Eastern side, after Camden Lincoln and Fairview both had 2-0 weekends. Now 17-0 for the season, Fairview smashed Warren 95-38, then subdued Crosstown Camden 73-54. That would have been expected, but Camden Lincoln gave that city a bad name around the district by whipping Smackover and Crossett.

Lincoln's feats were clearly eye-opening, as Smackover only lost to Fairview by three points, and Crossett is the defending State Class A Champions. Fairview faces Lincoln in what should be a pressure cooker fairly soon, and this writer will be able to give his views after seeing Fairview play the Bobcats this Saturday night.

Two weeks ago sent Hope to Camden Lincoln, and the Tigers had their problems before tipping the locals 61-48. Lincoln showed outstanding muscle, speed, and shooting ability, though, and are probably the best qualified opponent Fairview will face before state tournament.

Standings remained unchanged in 4-AA West, as are shown below. Crossett, Smackover, and El Dorado Washington are emerging as rulers in the East, though Magnolia is also a threat.

Baylor Makes Biggest Gain in Pro Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles made the biggest gain in the National Basketball Association scoring race last week, jumping from seventh to fourth, but one slip and down he goes again.

Scoring 57 points in two games for a 1,099 total, Baylor moved ahead of Earl Monroe of Baltimore, Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia and Len Wilkens of Seattle. However, Monroe, in fifth place, is only two points behind the Lakers' star while Cunningham is 17 back and Wilkens 21.

Elvin Hayes, San Diego's runaway rookie, continued his domination of the top spot despite a mediocre week of 104 points in four games, dropping his average to 29.9. However, Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati managed only 60 points in three games and now trails Hayes, 1,436 to 1,196.

Bob Rule of Seattle is third at 1,188 after scoring 45 points in two contests.

Don Kojis of San Diego moved into the Top 10 in eighth position while Dave Bing dropped from 10th to 13th. Lou Hudson of Atlanta fell from eighth to 10th while Gail Goodrich of Phoenix held ninth.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The last time Fort Smith and Fort Smith Southside tangled on the basketball court Jerry Jennings popped in a jump shot in the closing seconds to give Northside a 46-44 victory.

That was last March, in the finals of the AA state tournament.

Tonight, they meet again and although the state championship won't be at stake it will be a big game for both sides. Southside is ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press Arkansas High School basketball poll and is unbeaten against Arkansas opposition. The Rebels dropped a nine-point decision to a Springfield, Mo. team.

Northside knocked Pine Bluff from the unbeaten list last week and it ranked third in the poll.

"Our kids always get up real good for this game," says Southside Coach Ronnie Bateman. "There's lots of interest in Fort Smith."

Southside has two starters back from last year's team — 6-foot-4 Jim Hamilton and David Sallee. Bateman has three starters who stand less than 6-foot.

"These kids work together real good," says Bateman. "And, they love to play."

Little Rock Central, unbeaten in 13 games, was a unanimous choice for the top spot in the poll. Tenth-ranked Searcy was the only other team unmoved by the balloting.

Southside jumped from third to second and Pine Bluff dropped from second to fourth. Northside climbed two notches to third and Fayetteville slipped from fourth to fifth, despite winning two games.

Unbeaten Camden Fairview moved up from seventh to sixth and Pyatt, 31-1, advanced from ninth to seventh. North Little Rock dropped from sixth to eighth and Little Rock Horace Mann slipped a notch to ninth.

Here are the results of the Associated Press basketball poll with first place votes and team records in parentheses and total points at right:

1. LR Central (13) (13-0) 130
2. FS Southside (11-1) 112
3. FS Northside (8-2) 91
4. Pine Bluff (12-1) 90
5. Fayetteville (12-1) 86
6. Camden Fairview (17-0) 62
7. Pyatt (31-1) 42
8. North Little Rock (12-5) 35
9. LR Mann (11-5) 30
10. Searcy (13-1) 22

Bob Cousy to Abandon Basketball

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Bob Cousy, who earned the title Mr. Basketball as an All-American at Holy Cross and during 13 fabulous years as a pro with the Boston Celtics, is abandoning the sport after six successful seasons as coach at Boston College.

Cousy, who shocked opponents with his clutch play as a 6-foot sharp-shooter in college and the National Basketball Association, stunned observers Monday by announcing his resignation as Boston College coach, effective at the end of the season.

Only 40 and still capable of shooting baskets from all angles, Cousy said he is leaving BC to devote more time to his boys' camp in New Hampshire and to his various business enterprises, most in public relations work.

"I have truly enjoyed my tenure at Boston College during the past six years," Cousy said. "My only regret is that I must discontinue my close contact with the young men on our team. Cousy, a master of the behind-the-back dribble and other thrilling phases of ball-handling, was named BC coach in 1962. However, at the request of the

Question Is Where Seals Will Play

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — The National Hockey League's board of governors spent the hours before tonight's 22nd annual All-Star Game contemplating the future of the Oakland Seals.

The West Division Seals have flourished on the ice but not at the gate this season and apparently will be playing elsewhere next season. The question the governors may decide today is just where that somewhere will be.

A group of Buffalo businessmen headed by Seymour Knox III has conditionally purchased the Seals. The condition is that the governors approve transfer of the franchise from Oakland to Buffalo.

That question headed the agenda for today's meeting.

In order to transfer the franchise, there must be nine yes votes on the 12-man board of governors. There is hard-core objection to the shift from at least three teams—Los Angeles, Toronto and Montreal. And Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the LA club, is certain that he can muster at least two more votes against the shift and thereby kill it.

LA does not want to surrender the obvious California rivalry an Oakland club provides. Toronto—just across the border from Buffalo—Montreal do not want more big-league competition in their territory.

If the board turns down the Buffalo move today, Vancouver could be the Seals' next target. The Labatt Brewery remains interested in securing the team and moving it there.

While the league brass battled the administrative problems, Toe Blake, coach of the East Division All Stars, and Scotty Bowman, who'll coach the west stars, puzzled out strategy for tonight's game.

Blake will have the cream of the older division players at his disposal. The East line-up includes Detroit's great Gordie Howe, playing in his 20th All-Star game and Boston's brilliant Bobby Orr. Howe, 41, and Orr, 20, are the oldest and youngest players in the league.

Bowman has seven of his own St. Louis Blues on the West squad, including goalies Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall, who hold a 24-goal lead in the race for the Vezina Trophy. Hall and Plante have combined for a league-leading 10 shutouts between them.

This year's game marks the first time the All Stars have been split up by divisions. It also marks the first time that players will be paid extra for winning. The winners will get $500 each, the losers $250.

late Walter Brown, owner of the Celtics, he put off taking over the Eagles to play one more season for the National Basketball Association champions.

Ironically, the same Celtics passed up Cousy, electing to draft badly needed size, after his graduation from Holy Cross in 1950. Chosen by the St. Louis Hawks and traded to Chicago, Brown drew his name from a hat when the Stags folded in the Windy City.

In six years at BC, Cousy's teams have compiled a record of 101 victories and 37 defeats, including a 6-3 mark this season. His teams have gone to four post season tournaments five years.

"His record speaks for itself," BC Athletic Director Bill Flynn said in "reluctantly" accepting Cousy's resignation.

He has done an outstanding job in building our basketball program to one of the finest in the nation in a few short years. We're certainly going to miss Bob—I guess it is the end of the finest basketball era ever at The Heights."

Musial Opens Door to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Stan Musial and Roy Campanella, each a three-time most valuable player in the National League, have been elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame. It was announced today.

Musial, a seven-time NL batting champion with the St. Louis Cardinals, became the fourth player to be elected to the Hall on his first try. The others were Bob Feller of Cleveland, Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox and Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn.

Campanella, whose career as a Brooklyn catcher ended on Jan. 28, 1958 when he suffered paralyzing injuries in an automobile accident, missed by eight votes of being elected last year when Joe Medwick was named.

In the 1969 voting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, Musial was named on 317 ballots of 340 and Campanella on 270. A vote of 75 per cent or 255 was necessary for election.

NEW YORK (AP) — The doors of Baseball's Hall of Fame swung open today for Stan Musial, who stood ready to enter amidst a welcome afforded only a handful of other baseball greats who preceded him.

Stan the Man left little doubt of his selection on this first year of his eligibility for the Hall after rewriting the record books during 22 brilliant years in the major leagues with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The results of the balloting by veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America were to be announced about 11 a.m. EST. A player must be named on 75 per cent of the ballots to be elected.

Since the first election in 1936, when former greats Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson made it, only Ted Williams in 1966 and Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson in 1962 were chosen on their first try.

However, despite his amazing hitting feats, it was doubtful that Musial would become a unanimous selection among the more than 450 writers voting. No player has ever been given that honor.

Joining Musial among those eligible for the first time—a player must be retired for five years to be eligible—were Red Schoendienst, Musial's close friend and former teammate who now manages the Cardinals, and Early Wynn, Gil Hodges and Vic Wertz.

The five joined 45 other former stars who were on last year's ballot. Of those, Roy Campanella, who missed by eight votes last year, was given the best chance for election.

Former Porker Coach Bowden Wyatt Dies

SWEETWATER, Tenn. (AP) — Bowden Wyatt, one of the nation's leading college football coaches for many years, died in a hospital here today. He was 55.

Wyatt, former head coach at Tennessee, Arkansas and Wyoming, died unexpectedly. He had lived near Kingston, Tenn., since his retirement from coaching several years ago.

Dr. Telford A. Lowery, who attended Wyatt, said he was admitted to the hospital Monday night with a virus infection. He had been ill several days.

Wyatt, a native of Kingston, was an All-America end at Tennessee in 1938 and began his coaching career at year later as an assistant at Mississippi State.

After World War II, Wyatt went to Wyoming as head coach in 1947. He had an outstanding record there, winning the Skyline Conference championship.

From Wyoming, Wyatt moved to Arkansas in 1953 and his second year there won the Southwest Conference title in 1954.

Tennessee lured him back to his alma mater in 1955. He coached Tennessee through an undefeated season in 1956, won the Southeastern Conference crown and was named Coach of the Year. The Volunteers were ranked second in the country in The Associated Press poll.

Tennessee's football fortunes turned sour in 1958 and Wyatt was fired after the 1962 season. He subsequently coached as an assistant at Oklahoma State in 1964, returning to East Tennessee in 1965 and entering the cattle business.

THE LATE Judge Kenesaw (Mountain) Landis, left, took his role seriously, but could the same be said for Groucho Marx, right, if he were baseball commissioner?

SMU Drops Game to Oklahomans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Greg Williams exploded for 30 points to lead Rice to a surprising 83-80 basketball victory over Florida State but Southern Methodist fell victim to a hot-shooting Oklahoma City team 96-74 in basketball games Monday night.

The split gives Southwest Conference members a 38-31 record against outsiders.

Williams, a 5-foot-7 senior sharpshooter, hit nine of 14 free throws from the field and 12 of 14 free throws as the Owls improved their season record to 4-7. Dave Cowens led the Seminoles with 20 points.

Rice shot a sizzling 57.3 per cent from the field, compared to 46.3 for Florida State.

Oklahoma City hit 52 per cent from the field and held the league's leading scorer, Gene Phillips, to eight points. Larry Phillips led the Mustangs with 18 points.

Conference teams won't see action again until Thursday, when Baylor is host to Tarleton State and Rice travels to Georgia Tech.

The only conference fray this week is Saturday when unbeaten Baylor, ranked 18th in the nation, entertains Texas Tech in a regionally televised game.

Few Believe UCLA Can Be Defeated

By JOE MOOSHIH

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — As if UCLA and Lew Alcindor didn't have enough going for them in basketball ability these days but their frustrated fans find they also have to battle the psyche and the myth.

"No doubt about it," said Notre Dame Coach Johnny Dee Tuesday in a conversational warmup for a pair of weekend doubleheaders involving the top-ranked and undefeated Bruins in Chicago Stadium.

"They psyche you long before a game starts and although Alcindor is real enough, his growing myth is something you have to battle," said Dee, who stood somewhat alone in his feelings that UCLA can be defeated.

Dee's Fighting Irish will be spared the wrath of the Bruins this weekend since Notre Dame, an 88-75 loser to the Bruins earlier in the season, faces Illinois Saturday when Loyola tackle the defending national champions.

Northwestern gets a crack at UCLA on Friday night's program which also finds Loyola matched against Marquette.

Dee felt "there are four or five teams in the country who could beat UCLA if they caught them on the right night. You have to play super basketball while they are having an off night. And you not only have to make Alcindor play 40 minutes but you must force him to race up and down the full length of the court on every play."

The other coaches, including UCLA's Johnny Wooden, hinted the Bruins are unbeatable.

"Intimidation?" responded Wooden to a question. "If other teams feel they have no chance against us, it's okay with me. The more the teams fear us, the easier our job is."

Asked if overconfidence might lead to a UCLA defeat, Wooden said, "I keep reminding myself these days about the Baltimore Colts and New York Jets."

While Dee, in trying to explain how it would be possible to beat UCLA actually was adding fuel to the UCLA lore, Illinois' Harry Schmidt came up with this answer when asked if UCLA can be defeated.

"Yes," said Schmidt, "if you have Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell to play against him."

Actually Bruins 2nd in Conference

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer
This may come as a surprise to those who have conceded UCLA its third straight National Collegiate basketball championship, but the Bruins, No. 1 in the nation, are only No. 2 in the Pacific Eight Conference.

Right now, it's simply a matter of who's played more games and no one seriously expects the standings to look the same come March. But the University of Washington, 9-4 over-all in UCLA's 12-0, held onto the league lead Monday night by defeating Oregon 60-54.

That gave the Huskies a 4-0 record in conference play to UCLA's 2-0, but they play each other Feb. 7 and 17 and Washington's still being on top is about as improbable as Lew Alcindor being cast as one of the Seven Dwarfs.

All five starters were in double figures for the Huskies, led by Pat Woolcock's 13 points. George Irvine had 12, Jay Bond and Rafael Stone 11 apiece and Dave Willenborg 10. Oregon's Stan Love took game honors with 17.

The Ducks led 17-15 midway through the first half, but Washington ran off eight straight points to take the lead for good. The Huskies led at halftime 32-25.

None of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams played Monday. The highest ranking teams to see action were 12th-rated Ohio State and No. 20 Dayton and the results didn't do much for the home court advantage.

Ohio State traveled to Atlanta and beat Georgia Tech 73-66 while Dayton stayed at home and succumbed to Western Kentucky 70-65.

Denny Meadows sank two late free throws and then nailed down Ohio State's victory with a key steal that boosted the Buckeyes' record to 10-2.

Georgia Tech bolted to an eight-point lead in the opening minutes but Meadows and Dave Sorenson sparked an 11-point run that put the Buckeyes back on top.

The teams traded baskets until the final minutes when Meadows' free throws gave the Buckeyes a 69-66 lead. Meadows then swiped the ball and Jim Clemons' basket boosted the margin to five points. Sorenson led the winners with 16 points and Meadows had 13.

Dayton led Western Kentucky 57-52 with 7:45 to play. But 6-foot-10 Dan Chrovac fouled out and the roof fell in as the Hilltoppers scored 16 straight points, 10 by sophomore Jim Rose.

Seven-foot Jim McDaniels paced Western Kentucky with 25 points while Dan Sadler had 20 for the Flyers. The loss was Dayton's third in 15 games and the first in nine home games this season.

Elsewhere, Oklahoma City used deadly shooting and strong rebounding to hammer Southern Methodist 96-74. Rich Travis led the scoring with 29 points while Willie Watson pulled down 24 rebounds.

Army, the nation's leading defensive team with a 56.5 average, rolled over Fairleigh Dickinson 78-43. Bobby Washington's 25 points helped Eastern Kentucky turn back Ohio Valley Conference rival Tennessee Tech 87-71.

Teachings of Celtics Now Haunt Them

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For many years, the Boston Celtics taught the importance of a big man rebounding in the middle, the fast break, the sudden spree that burst open a game. Now those teachings are coming back to haunt them.

The Baltimore Bullets, a National Basketball Association doormat during the reign of the Celtics, proved again Monday night they learned those lessons well by beating Boston 122-109.

The victory was Baltimore's third straight over the Celtics this season and boosted its Eastern Division lead to 3½ games over Philadelphia and Boston.

In the only other NBA game, Milwaukee tripped Detroit 102-101 at Madison, Wis.

In the only American Basketball Association contest, Indiana outlasted Kentucky 141-129 and pulled into a tie with the Colonels for second place in the Eastern Division.

Baltimore held only an 88-85 lead toward the end of the third quarter when Jack Marin scored six points and Gus Johnson four in a 12-2 fast break spurt that buried the visiting Celtics.

Kevin Loughery led the Bullets with 38 points, but their man in the middle, Wes Unseld, a major reason for their success this year, played an equally important role in the victory. He outscored Bill Russell 16-13 and out rebounded him 23-18.

Sam Jones had 35 points for Boston, which fell percentage points behind Philadelphia.

Jon McGlocklin climaxed a 38-point performance for Milwaukee with a basket in the last six seconds for a 102-99 lead. The Bucks had never trailed after taking a 58-51 halftime lead.

Indiana took advantage of 38 Kentucky fouls and hit 50 three throws for its victory. Roger Brown led the Pacers with 36 points while Louis Dampier had 33 for Kentucky.

River Area Opened for Recreation

DUMAS, Ark. (AP) — Ernest

Hogue of Wiener, chairman of the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, and Col. Charles L. Steel, Little Rock district Army Engineer, Monday opened the first recreational area on the Arkansas River between Little Rock and the Mississippi River.

The park is named Merriach Lake Public Use Area and is located near Lock and Dam No. 2. It is located 17 miles south of Gillett and 37 miles northeast of Dumas.

At present, there are spaces for 25 camping families, but there is room for expansion.

Demonstrators Fail in Try to Interrupt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeering, cursing antiwar demonstrators, some wearing white masks in grotesque mimicry of Richard M. Nixon, tried but failed to interrupt the pageantry of the new President's Inauguration day.

Eighty demonstrators were arrested Monday and some left short but sharp encounters with police nursing bloodied heads. But the violence fell far short of the pitched battles at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last August.

Most of the arrests were for disorderly conduct, police headquarters said. Two youths were charged with burning an American flag and one with assaulting a policeman.

Demonstrators dressed in hippie garb, some wrapped in blankets to ward off the near-freezing temperature, charged a cordon of policemen guarding the parade route along Pennsylvania Avenue.

Paratroopers rushed to form a second line of defense as Nixon's armored limousine passed. He pointedly turned his back to wave at the cheering crowd on the other side of the wide avenue but his car speeded up suddenly when a large rock hit within a foot of it.

Secret Service agents accompanying the President's car battled down several objects that flew toward it.

The demonstrators were originally part of a "counter inaugural" called by the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam. Almost all the people who confronted the police were white, although some Negroes and other whites stood on sidewalks and shouted encouragement.

After Nixon passed they left Pennsylvania Avenue and ran toward Lafayette Park but never came closer than a well-guarded block from the White House and its reviewing stand, where Nixon watched the parade through bullet-resistant glass.

At the park they met and surrounded city Patrolman W. E. Larman. He lunged at one demonstrator, then they swarmed over him shouting, "Kill the pig!" Two, then two more officers arrived, riot batons flailing, to rescue him. He was not seriously hurt.

In a running series of short encounters on H Street, demonstrators threw stones at police cars, Army car and at least two motorcycle policemen.

Ethics Bill Has Backer in Brandon

By PETE YOUNG

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock says he will fight for a governmental code of ethics bill with the same gusto he used two years ago to defeat a similar measure.

Brandon said he "bitterly" fought an ethics bill introduced two years ago by Rep. Hayes McClerkin of Texarkana because it was cumbersome and would deny legislators from voting on matters in which they had an interest.

"The McClerkin bill introduced two years ago was very specific that legislators could not vote on anything they had an interest in," Brandon said. "I don't think it is proper to pass legislation that denies an elected official a vote."

Under Brandon's proposed code, legislators would be required to register with the secretary of state's office all his business affiliations and personal business interests. A listing of their interests would then be published and made available to the public.

"For an example," Brandon said, "under the McClerkin bill, legislators involved in school matters couldn't vote on school issues. All legislators who were connected with schools in any way or whose wives were teachers would have a conflict of interest and could not vote. This could affect nearly half the legislators on this one issue alone."

Brandon said it wasn't with a bully conscience that he introduced a similar bill he helped to defeat but rather an act to help restore public trust in the legislature.

The 36-year-old furniture retailer also advocates holding annual rather than biennial legislative sessions and an amendment to allow legislators to establish their own salaries. Both would require constitutional amendment and Brandon has already proposed one such amendment this session — one to make a code of ethics mandatory.

His proposed amendment would require that a code of ethics always be in effect over Arkansas governmental agencies. He said this would allow his ethics bill to be amended according to the changing times but would prevent ethics legislation from being repealed.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller had said he would introduce ethics legislation this session but Brandon denied that his bill was in anyway connected with the administration.

"This is my bill," he said. "I have not talked about it with any of them (Rockefeller's aides). It was them who criticized me two years ago for my action."

There are several basic differences between Brandon's proposal and the one introduced by McClerkin besides the voting rights of legislators. They include:

— McClerkin's proposal covered only legislators. The Brandon bill covers all state employees, including department heads and their personnel.

— The McClerkin bill required a legislator to go on record as having a business interest in proposed legislation every time such legislation arose. Legislators would be provided with lists stating such interests under the Brandon proposal.

The House defeated McClerkin's proposal 44-51. Brandon said it was the first time he had ever voted against

Goldwater Is Very Popular

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, losing Republican presidential nominee four years ago, became a beaming, popular magnet for inaugural autograph seekers as he joined the Republican revelry Monday night over Richard Nixon's elevation to President.

Goldwater quipped to an inaugural ball crowd: "After 1964 I feel like the only kamikaze pilot who ever made a round trip."

speech, with a few ad libs, at each ball at the Smithsonian Institution and the five hotels, expressing thanks to those who supported him in 20 years in politics and came to Washington to celebrate his inauguration.

In the years to come, Nixon said, they would forget that it was a cold day and rained at night. "You'll simply remember the glow of friendship."

And, he promised, to their cheers "We're not going to let you down."

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew were on the circuit, too, and finally wound up on the same platform with the Nixons around midnight.

"A very great evening for us," Nixon declared.

At least 30,000 ballgoers gave the new President and his lady cheering ovations as he made the rounds Monday night in white tie and tails, making brief speeches laced with humor and expressing faith in the American people.

The President and his family spent about 30 minutes at each ball and he wound up at 1:30 a.m. on a serious note: "America is a good country," he said, "and Americans are good people. I hope we can be worthy of the great goodness that is in America—these next four years."

Mainly, though, Nixon was in a joking mood. He reported that "President Johnson left the lights on at the White House for us."

When he finally headed home, he told a delighted crowd: "They gave me the key to the front door of the White House and I'm going home to see if it fits."

Nixon's enjoyment of his new role was obvious. Many of his joking remarks were directed at how long he had sought the presidency.

"Where I sit," he said, "Any inauguration would be good. I thought this one was especially good, didn't you?"

The balls were the big windup social event of three days of inaugural activities and they were a sellout at $35 a head and $1000 for a box. Some 25 bands, including Lionel Hampton, Sammy Kaye, Lester Lanin, Meyer Davis, Guy Lombardo and Duke Ellington performed.

It was a crushing mob scene everywhere. Nixon surveying the crowds, joked: "Now I know what they mean by 'Bring us together,'" alluding to the slogan of his administration.

"The only advantage," he noted, "is that I was afraid I was going to have to dance tonight." He confided "I'm not a very good dancer."

Nixon introduced his family: wife Pat, daughter Tricia, 22, and her escort, Doug Rogers, son of the secretary of state; daughter Julie, 20, and her husband, David Eisenhower.

He said Pat "has been first lady in my House 28 years, now she's First Lady in the White House."

Mrs. Nixon wore a mimosa yellow silk satin ballgown its jacket and cummerbund aglitter with jewels that took 260 hours to embroider.

He made just about the same

In the years to come, Nixon said, they would forget that it was a cold day and rained at night. "You'll simply remember the glow of friendship."

And, he promised, to their cheers "We're not going to let you down."

Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew were on the circuit, too, and finally wound up on the same platform with the Nixons around midnight.

"A very great evening for us," Nixon declared.

At least 30,000 ballgoers gave the new President and his lady cheering ovations as he made the rounds Monday night in white tie and tails, making brief speeches laced with humor and expressing faith in the American people.

The President and his family spent about 30 minutes at each ball and he wound up at 1:30 a.m. on a serious note: "America is a good country," he said, "and Americans are good people. I hope we can be worthy of the great goodness that is in America—these next four years."

Mainly, though, Nixon was in a joking mood. He reported that "President Johnson left the lights on at the White House for us."

When he finally headed home, he told a delighted crowd: "They gave me the key to the front door of the White House and I'm going home to see if it fits."

Nixon's enjoyment of his new role was obvious. Many of his joking remarks were directed at how long he had sought the presidency.

"Where I sit," he said, "Any inauguration would be good. I thought this one was especially good, didn't you?"

The balls were the big windup social event of three days of inaugural activities and they were a sellout at $35 a head and $1000 for a box. Some 25 bands, including Lionel Hampton, Sammy Kaye, Lester Lanin, Meyer Davis, Guy Lombardo and Duke Ellington performed.

It was a crushing mob scene everywhere. Nixon surveying the crowds, joked: "Now I know what they mean by 'Bring us together,'" alluding to the slogan of his administration.

"The only advantage," he noted, "is that I was afraid I was going to have to dance tonight." He confided "I'm not a very good dancer."

Nixon introduced his family: wife Pat, daughter Tricia, 22, and her escort, Doug Rogers, son of the secretary of state; daughter Julie, 20, and her husband, David Eisenhower.

He said Pat "has been first lady in my House 28 years, now she's First Lady in the White House."

Mrs. Nixon wore a mimosa yellow silk satin ballgown its jacket and cummerbund aglitter with jewels that took 260 hours to embroider.

Millar Barber Winner of Short Meet

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — "It's a doggone shame," commented Miller Barber. "You hate to win this way."

The 38-year-old from Sherman, Tex., had just collected $13,500 for his victory in the rain-abbreviated Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament as storms continued to flood the fairways and greens.

Good weather prevailed Thursday and Friday as Barber posted scores of 68 and 67 at the Silverado Country Club. Then came the rains and by Monday morning all hope of continuing the tournament was gone.

"You can't even get to the tees," commented Jack Tuthill, tournament director for the Professional Golfers' Association. "This course won't be playable Tuesday either."

So the touring pros headed for Pebble Beach and Bing Crosby's national pro-amateur. They hoped to leave the bad weather behind, but that may not be. Fresh storms were reported heading for the Northern California area.

With the reduction to 36 holes, the purse was also halved as the stocky, balding Barber collected for his 135 score.

University Merger Bill Hearing Set

By ED SHEARER

Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A public hearing was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Jan. 28 on a bill that would merge the University of Arkansas and Little Rock University.

The bill, which was introduced in both the House and Senate Monday, triggered an angry exchange between Sen. Ben Allen of Little Rock and Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway.

Allen accused Jones of delaying tactics when Jones asked the Senate Education Committee to defer consideration on the bill at this time.

However, the committee decided to set the public hearing on the matter when several other members said they did not want to move too hastily on the bill.

The lower chamber passed a bill that would create a first offenders penal institution for persons under the age of 21 convicted of a felony. The House then passed a resolution directing the state Board of Correction to prepare within two weeks a study on the feasibility of having Tucker Prison Farm converted into the first offenders institution.

A bill creating an Arkansas Board of Hearing Aid Dispensers to regulate and license hearing aid dealers cleared both houses Monday but Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff gave notice that the bill might be brought up again within three days for reconsideration.

During the Jones-Allen exchange in the committee meeting, Jones denied that he was trying to stall.

"I just want time to mass my forces if I have got any," Jones said.

"I don't think anyone here does not think the merger is desirable except Sen. Jones, who is unalterably opposed to anything constructive pertaining to Little Rock," Allen said.

Allen, who says he has the 18 votes needed for passage of the bill, later shook his finger in Jones' face and said: "This is the beginning of an attempt to be a divisive force in the Senate and this is an attempt to set the country boys against the city boys. You told me today, Sen. Jones, that you're going to take this on as a public project."

The bill does not contain a provision that a junior college be established in conjunction with the proposed merger.

The Senate Education Committee also gave a "do pass" recommendation to a bill implementing Amendment 53, the so-called "kindergarten" amendment which was approved in the November general election.

The first defeat of a bill in the 67th General Assembly came in the House Monday when the representatives rejected Rep. J. B. Smith's measure that would provide for the posting of privately owned forest land. The vote was 34-49.

The 96 House Democrats met in caucus for one hour before Monday's session began and voted to place the Democratic label on the bill that would create a first offenders penal institution.

Rep. Sterling R. Cockrill Jr., the majority leader, said the caucus decided to begin taking positions on certain bills if they are asked to do so by the author. Cockrill said any measure getting caucus endorsement would first have to go through a House committee.

The Democrats also elected a slate of caucus officers to serve with Cockrill.

Reps. John Bethell of Des Arc and John Miller of Melbourne were elected vice chairman, Rep. Charles Davis of Springdale secretary, Rep. F. B. Manatt of Corning treasurer and Rep. Talbot Feld Jr. of Hope parliamentarian.

Both houses adjourned until 1:30 p.m. today.

Protecting Fish and Game

Lawmakers in a coastal state, worried about overfishing in tidal waters, passed a law forbidding the use of large nets. Fishermen duly challenged the law on the ground that there were "still plenty of fish in the sea."

But the court held the law valid. "No resource is inexhaustible," said the court. "We think the protective hand of the state may be extended before the danger is imminent. The state is interested not merely in the preservation of specimens for museums but in perpetuating a constant supply."

Fish and game on public property belong to the public as a whole. To prevent a disorderly free-for-all, the state—as trustee for the public—has broad powers of regulation.

For example, the state has wide discretion in imposing penalties. In one case a man arrested for illegal possession of 2,000 ducks drew a fine of $20,000—$10 per duck.

"That big a fine is unconstitutional," he protested in appealing to a higher court. "It amounts to 'cruel and unusual' punishment."

But the court held that the state was merely making the punishment fit the crime. The judge said the severity of the sentence was "the fault not of the law but of the infractor."

Furthermore, in proving its case, the state does not necessarily have

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Varicose Veins Are Not Hereditary

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—What symptoms do varicose veins cause? Are they hereditary?

A—Uncomplicated varicose veins usually cause no discomfort. In far-advanced cases there may be mild aching pains in the legs, easy fatigability and a feeling of heaviness around the ankles. Varicose veins are not hereditary but are caused by long periods of standing in one place. They often follow pregnancy and childbirth.

Q—I am 23 and have varicose veins. Can there be any complications? Is there any complete cure?

A—The usual complications are chronic leg ulcers and inflammations of the veins (phlebitis). Surgical removal of the veins or injecting them with an obliterating agent will cure them, but if the conditions that caused them persist they may return.

Q—At times bathers in the Gulf of Mexico are bothered by jellyfish. Pinnipoint welts occur and later the gait becomes unsteady and one gets cramps or nausea. Is there anything the victim can do when stung to minimize the poisonous effects?

A—The results of stings by jellyfish, sea nettles or Portuguese men-of-war can be serious. Prompt local application of ammonia, alcohol or calamine lotion helps to neutralize the poison. Antihistamines will reduce the severity of the delayed symptoms. Drugs of the cortisone group have been tried with varying success.

Q—I have liver spots on my face. I know some women have them when they are pregnant but I never had them. What causes them? What can be done for them? Are they contagious?

A—Liver spot is a vague term that is applied to different skin conditions including chloasma (the mask of pregnancy) and morphea (a skin manifestation of sclerosis).

to catch a violator red-handed. Thus, it may make the mere possession of certain types of fishing and hunting equipment "prima facie" evidence of illegal fishing or hunting, shifting onto the defendant the burden of proving his innocence.

Nevertheless, if the evidence is too flimsy, the court will dismiss the case. Take this situation:

Game wardens, halting a car near a lake, found four men with fishing licenses and a fifth man without. The four said they had indeed been fishing, but they all insisted the fifth man had not.

Was his mere presence in the car enough to convict him of fishing without a license? The court said no, because that would be punishing him on the basis of highly circumstantial evidence.

In other words, the fisherman and the hunter must accept the law's restraints in the spirit of public interest. But the law, in turn, must apply those restraints in the spirit of good sportsmanship.

Q—When was the first time Columbus set foot on the North American mainland?
A—Columbus landed in Honduras in 1502. The landing took place on his fourth and last trip to the New World.

A—According to tradition, the manger where Christ was born was filled with these plants.

Dear Mr. Washburn:

As you know, the United States Congress is in session almost all of the time. The members are well paid, adequately staffed and have franking privilege, whereby they may keep in close touch with those who elect them.

The Arkansas Legislature meets only 60 days during a two year period. No staff or offices are available to the members of the legislature, nor do they have mail franking privileges. Consequently, it is physically and financially difficult for the members of the legislature to poll their constituents concerning their views on pending legislation. Because of the size and scope of General Revenue proposals for increased taxes, I would appreciate your assistance, as a public service, in running the enclosed questionnaire in your paper on one or more days. It should be suggested that it be marked, signed with the address of the person signing, and mailed to me in care of your mail box. By this means we might jointly open and tabulate the results. Of course, the identity of those replying will be kept confidential as is all correspondence.

I believe this would be an excellent way of making a poll of public opinion in Hempstead County regarding the tax program being recommended to the 1969 legislature.

Sincerely yours,

QUESTIONNAIRE

TO THE PEOPLE OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY:

Governor Rockefeller has recommended to the 1969 session of the General Assembly a comprehensive tax program. In recommending this program, the Governor is discharging his duty by calling the attention of the General Assembly to the financial problems of the State, and submitting his recommendations for the means of obtaining the funds to meet his expanded program.

Members of the House of Representatives, and the Senate, likewise have a duty to discharge their responsibilities by evaluating the various tax proposals and by appropriating the funds necessary to operate our government. In representing you and before casting my votes on these proposals, I would appreciate your reviewing the Governor's tax proposals as outlined below, plus two other items, and then indicate on each proposal whether you are FOR or AGAINST.

TOTAL NET INCREASE

$95,620,000

It is predicated that with a normal four percent increase in revenues the second year will produce $99,424,000, which will total $195,024,000 for the two-year period.

The Arkansas Legislative Council has concluded its budget work and has recommended that expenditures be held within manageable revenue income under present tax collections during the next two years. Unfortunately, holding the revenues to this rigid line will make it impossible to provide increases in welfare benefits, increased teacher salaries and other expansions in state services.

It has been estimated that by eliminating exemptions in the sales and use taxes $50,000,000 in additional revenue would be available without an increase in the tax rate.

It is my opinion that with between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 Dollars of new money each year, we can meet our essential needs. This might be obtained without tax increases or by some tax increases on luxury items plus eliminating exemptions in the sales and use taxes. (FOR _____ AGAINST _____) obtaining these funds without increasing taxes or by some tax increases on luxury items plus eliminating exemptions in the sales and use taxes.

From 1960 to 1965, inclusive, the state's total tax collections increased twice as fast as the per capita income. Based on per capita income Arkansas is one of the highest taxed states in the nation. Only Mississippi has a lower per capita income than Arkansas. Your individual income is the index to what you can pay in taxes, just as it is the index to what you can buy for your personal and family needs and welfare.

The Governor's Committee on the Study of Efficiency in State Government made recommendations which if implemented might save in excess of $31,000,000. None of these recommendations for economy in state government have been implemented. (FOR _____ AGAINST _____) putting these recommendations into effect before raising taxes.
